

ADAPTABILITY OF
BARLEY IN LIVE STOCK FEEDING

As a utility feed for live stock, the value of barley is generally accepted but its particular value in this respect is less fully appreciated. Barley, like corn, is a carbonaceous feed and, generally speaking, it may successfully be used to replace corn in the ration. When fed alone it is open to criticism because of its lack of palatability as compared with oats, corn or wheat; but when fed in grain mixtures this objection is negligible. It is rather heating in character, and because of this must be fed with discretion to such classes of stock as idle work horses and pregnant brood sows, if used at all.

When fed in an experimental way to work horses it was not consumed with the same relish as oats, nor did it possess as high a food value. The difference in this latter respect was, however, comparatively slight.

For the feeding of steers or beef cattle, barley has a high commercial value. In a test conducted at the Brandon Experimental Farm, in which barley and frozen wheat were compared, the barley chop gave an average daily gain per steer of 1 pound 13 ounces, while the frozen wheat gave a gain of 1 pound 3 ounces. At the Indian Head Experimental Farm, in a test covering a period of 77 days, barley was compared with elevator screenings. The barley-fed lot made an average daily gain per steer of 2 1/8 pounds while the screening-fed lot made a gain of 1.78 pounds. Barley also holds a prominent place in the meal ration of dairy cattle.

The suitability of barley for bacon production has been repeatedly demonstrated by the Dominion Experimental Farms, particularly for finishing. It is not a desirable feed for brood sows before farrowing or during the early part of the nursing period, but may be introduced into the sow's ration after the pigs are a week or two of age. Because of its carbonaceous nature it should not be fed to newly-weaned pigs in any appreciable quantity, but find its chief use in the rations of bacon hogs after they have attained the age of about three months. At this time it may safely be introduced and gradually increased until it comprises upwards of 50 or 60 per cent of the meal ration as the hog approaches marketable weight.

In comparison with corn for the feeding of market hogs it has given 6 1/2 of a pound lower daily gain per hog and cost 0.26 of a cent more per pound of gain in feeding tests recently conducted at three Dominion Experimental Farms in Eastern Canada. The deductions drawn from these tests with swine were as follows: 1. That bacon hogs are capable of making slightly greater gains on corn. 2. That pound for pound, barley has a slightly lower feeding value than corn. 3. That barley-fed hogs are more evenly fleshed. 4. That barley-fed hogs give a superior quality of bacon. 5. That home-grown barley can be fed more economically than corn (generally an imported feed).

It might be well to emphasize the importance of using home-grown feeds for economical production under present market conditions. Barley can be universally grown, is a relatively heavy yielding, and is particularly well suited for adding to the rations of cattle, sheep and swine where a carbonaceous feed is required.

M.D. OF GOLDEN WEST

A regular meeting of the Council of the Municipal District of Golden West No. 371, was held in the municipal office at Sylvan Lake on July 26, all members of Council, and the secretary, being present.

A petition was received from a number of ratepayers asking for a bylaw for restraining stock from running at large in townships 27 and 28, range 2, W. 6th Meridian, during the months from May to October, inclusive. The petition was tabled on motion by Stringer, to be dealt with at a later meeting.

John A. Olson, of Markerville, attended the meeting as a delegate from the Markerville band, and solicited a grant for the band for the purpose of securing some new instruments, and also to support the general interest of the organization. After full consideration of the matter, the Council, on the motion of Mr. Olson, the following was moved by Councillor Stringer:—

"That this Council are in hearty sympathy with the aims and aspirations of the Markerville Band, and fully recognize and appreciate the social and community value of the band, and while the Council do not think that at the present time, in view of present financial conditions, they as a Council, are justified in making any grants for such purposes out of the funds of the district, yet, nevertheless, as a Council, would recommend that a subscription list for the Markerville Brass Band be opened at the municipal office, and that the secretary receive subscriptions for same."

This was agreed to unanimously, and each member of the Council and the secretary subscribed the sum of $1 each, making a total of $7, which was handed to Mr. Olson on behalf of the Markerville Band.

Moved by Councillor Smith that J. R. Armstrong be notified to remove a dam causing damage to the road on the S.W. of section 4-38-1-5. Carried.

Moved by Councillor Isaacson that sufficient land on the N.E. of 38-2-5 be purchased for a roadway into Benato, the price to be paid being $25.00 per acre, one-half to be paid in 1924 and the balance during 1925. The motion was carried.

The application of Mr. Fong Sing for a restaurant license at Benato was approved on motion by Councillor Isaacson.

Mr. Bell, of the Russell Road Machinery Co. of Saskatchewan, was present, and made a contract for one eight foot grader for Divisions 1 and 6, at the purchase price of $950, to be paid in two equal payments coming due on December 1, 1924 and 1925, and notes bearing interest from May 1, 1925.

The following accounts and pay-sheets were passed for payment:—

Div. 1—Kennedy & Fitzsimmons, $15.00; Hugh McEwen, $10; McLeary Hardware Co., $8.00. Div. 2—The Red Deer News, $2.70; E. Holmgren, labor, $2.50; John Longmore, machin-

| FINED FOR RAISING CREAM GRADE(Alix Free Press) On Tuesday afternoon in Alx before Police Magistrate Jackson, of Camrose, the management of The Meadow Creamery was convicted of two infringements of the Act and fined in the first instance $10 and costs and in the second $75 and costs, the third charge being dismissed. The three charges preferred by the Department of Agriculture, through their representative, Mr. Pearson, were as follows:— 1—"Raising the Grade" contrary to the Act. 2—"Discriminating in Price" by reason of raising the grade. 3—"Statement issued not having the name of person to whom it was consigned." The finding of the court was very unpopular for it was a case of a man doing the right thing by his customers, as it was proven that Mr. Larsen had on various other occasions turned | down shipments as of grade which were afterwards accepted by other creameries, showing his intent to deal justly and maintain the standard of his output. In the first instance he awarded a customer No. 1 above the grade, and in the second he paid a patron special when his cream showed No. 1 on the daily records as tested by the grader. In both instances the change was the correct grading, according to the manager's life-time experience. And into the bargain, these men had been used to a special at various other creameries. The justice of the management's change of grade in the second charge was further substantiated by the prosecution's witnesses, who stated that in the one case his cream could not have been other than special owing to climatic conditions and shipping three cans a week, while the other man said his cream was only fair. At the mass meeting of cream producers who convened immediately after the hearing of the charges directed against the Meadow Creamery of Lox, the conclusions as given by Police Magistrate L. E. Jackson, of Camrose, were thoroughly discussed and by resolution, which carried unanimously, the Magistrate was requested to sustain the judgment he rendered. After a thorough discussion of the question insofar as the present system of cream grading and the general conduct of the cream business in this province is concerned, the following resolution, as submitted to the meeting by the Resolutions Committee, which was composed of Messrs. Robertson, barrister, of Bahaw; Albert Scott, of Gadaby, and L. A. Siddons, of Alx, was read at the meeting and carried unanimously:— "Resolution:— "That a mass meeting of cream producers held in Alx on the 22nd day of July, 1924, the following resolution was passed:— "This meeting of cream producers, assembled in Alx, after hearing the evidence produced in the trial of N. A. Larsen, of Meadow Creamery, Company, for infractions of the Dairy Act relating to creameries, has come to the conclusion that the present Act puts too much power into the hands of graders who are too often men of little | experience. It further takes from the manufacturer in a great measure the power of conducting his own business to the satisfaction of both himself and his patrons. "We believe also that while Mr. Larsen's lifetime experience in handling dairy products, that his judgment in cases of dispute between himself and the grader, is worthy of greater weight. "After dealing with Mr. Larsen for a period of years, we are firmly convinced of his fairness and integrity, and consider that today's proceedings, while no doubt legally correct, constitute a grave miscarriage of true justice. "It is further resolved that a copy of this resolution be sent to the Premier of this Province and the Minister of Agriculture." | moys 71, Emily Sveinsson 65. Miss Sveinsson's ClassPreparatory Piano — Pass: Billy Trueman 66, May Blair 65. Primary—Honors: Jack Brown 78, Joyce Blair 71, Helen Warwick 70. TheoryElementary — First class honors: Frances Trueman 100; honors, Joyce Blair 75; pass, Helen Warwick 60. Primary—Pass: Dorothy Goodacre 60. Zelma Moyes' PupilPreparatory Piano—Honors: Esther Muir 70. Janice McDowell and Mary Smith came first in the Dominion for Primary and Junior piano respectively. ## How's Business?

Advertising, backed by the right spirit, the right goods and the right service, can rescue a sinking business and will make a prosperous business more masterful in its own community.

When John Wanamaker, the Prince of Merchants, began business, he resolved to force matters. He was not content to Wait to be found out--he Determined to Be found out. In short, he advertised. He threw on his business, small as it was, the light of publicity, and the public of Philadelphia entered the shop on which the light shone.

In this community the public are entering those shops on which the light of advertising is falling.

DEFEAT THE DEBENTURE BY-LAW

The ratepayers will be asked next Monday to vote on a by-law to raise money to build a make-shift frame school on the school grounds.

Mr. Berry, a member of the School Board, takes the burden upon himself, and has written a lengthy letter to the press in favor of the scheme. His letter is full of misleading statements which are apt to deceive and which we cannot allow to go unanswered.

For instance, he says the fuel cost of the Parish Hall was $400. This is not correct. Mr. Berry himself showed the editor of this paper the fuel cost, which was only $507, nearly one hundred dollars less than his figures.

He says the Board was unanimous in favor of the scheme. This is not correct. Trustee Broughton was opposed.

He says the rental was one thousand dollars for the Parish Hall, but failed to state the committee were willing to reduce the rental to five hundred dollars.

He finds fault with the accommodation at the Parish Hall, but the same thing applies to the suggested new building, which is only a make-shift, and will be discarded as soon as a real new school is built.

But why go on? Mr. Berry is a very small taxpayer of Red Deer, and thanks the Lord for it, but he is quite willing and anxious to increase the debenture debt by about ten thousand dollars, and put this added burden on other shoulders.

For the past twelve years the taxpayers of Red Deer have been struggling to get out of the quicksands of debt that have threatened to engulf them. Many have sweat blood in the struggle, while others have become weary and given up in despair. This year for the first time the Commissioners have shown just the smallest glimmer of light in the darkness by a very small reduction in the taxes.

No matter what Mr. Berry or any body else says, if this by-law carries it will increase the bonded indebtedness of the city by about ten thousand dollars, and if the heavy taxpayers, who have borne the burden for so many years, allow this extra load to be placed on their shoulders, they will have only themselves to blame. If the by-law carries, and this make-shift frame building is built, it will help to put off the day when we will have a fine, up-to-date school in Red Deer.

For these and numerous other reasons, The News hopes the ratepayers will defeat the by-law next Monday.

TEN YEARS AGO

It is ten years ago this week since the storm of war broke over a world for the most part utterly unprepared for it and unsuspecting of its coming. The documents and books which have been published since that date prove abundantly the failure of the leaders of the British Empire and of most other countries to realize what was about to happen. All the thoughts and efforts of the British Government had been directed towards peace. Some of their great citizens and officials like Lord Roberts and Lord Fisher had warned them of the danger, but the warning had either been disbelieved, or had been neglected because of the inconvenience of recognizing its truth, and in the vague hope that it might in some way prove unfounded. Certain general measures of preparation had been taken, more or less unwillingly and half-heartily, but the common attitude was that war was at the worst unlikely and at the best impossible.

In Canada even more than in Great Britain the idea of war was treated as fantastic, the bogey of scare-mongers and armament firms. Even men like Mr. Michael Clark, so brilliantly clever, and so finely patriotic, as he later on proved himself to be, talked with the hard evidence of their own eyes, and the complex ignorance of the situation was a common enough one throughout the Dominion.

Then in ten days of swiftly deepening anxiety the clouds of war gathered and broke. All but the youngest amongst us must remember those first days—the amazement, the excitement, the rush of men to enlist, their eagerness to join the first contingent that the war should be over before they could reach the front.

Next came the first bad news—the fall of Liege and Namur, the retreat of the French and British, the battle of Mons so gloriously unsuccessful, the apparently restless advance of the Germans on Paris. The miracle of the miracle was wrought and against hope ran high of a swift and triumphant end. Then gradually this expectancy deepened, and it was borne in on the minds of people throughout the Empire that there was no sporting affair of peace and war, with an occasional fight to vary the monotony, but a terrible, grinding, sordid struggle in cold and rain and mud against heavy odds, with the end far out of sight.

It was well that we could not direct see the length and the nature of the ordeal we had to face. Courage might have wavered at the prospect in spite of the deep-rooted belief in the justice of our cause. We know now how near we came to disaster, by how small a margin we were saved. In the ruin and misery of other nations we may measure the extent of the mercy to us by the Lord of battles. For many of us it has changed the whole course of our lives. To some the war was an opportunity for the exercise of qualities of usefulness, courage and devotion which otherwise might have remained dormant and unsuspected. To some it meant bodily and mental anguish unexampled. Some, it has left with only a splendid memory to take the place of dark ones gone. To some—and they are the most wretched of all—the war meant either nothing at all or only a means of personal gain.

For instance, he says the fuel cost of the Parish Hall was $400. This is not correct. Mr. Berry himself showed the editor of this paper the fuel cost, which was only $507, nearly one hundred dollars less than his figures. He says the Board was unanimous in favor of the scheme. such a distinction can be efficiently worked in practice, unless the States propose to introduce also something in the nature of a registration system for immigrants. Otherwise, how is the intending settler to be prevented from representing himself as being merely a tourist, entering the States as such, and, once in, abandoning his tourist guise and settling down permanently. On the other hand, it is unlikely that States like California, which have such a large number of tourists from Canada in the winter months, will consent to the loss of all of them under the new Act.

No doubt the practice under the Act will gradually become settled and known, but in the meantime there is likely to be much trouble for consular officials both British and American, and also for persons of all nationalities trying to enter the States. The moral of that is: Stay in Canada.

WILD BUFFALO IN THE NORTH

Until comparatively recently it was thought that the semi-tame herd of buffalo in the Canadian Government park at Watnright was the last substantial herd remaining alive out of all the thousands that once roamed over the North West. Hunters and prospectors in the far North, however, brought reports of buffalo being there in a wholly wild state, and this is now definitely established to be the case. The reports have now been made public of the officials from the Department of the Interior sent to investigate the matter, and from these reports it is clear that there is a herd of between 1500 and 2000 buffalo roaming in the area between the Peace and Slave Rivers and the Great Slave Lake.

There is something distinctly romantic about this re-appearance of an animal so much associated with the early days of the North-West. It is like the return of some adventurous explorer from an unknown land after he had been long given up for dead. It is entirely satisfactory that the Dominion Government has promptly taken steps to protect and preserve these survivors of the lost legions. An area of approximately 10,000 square miles has been set aside in the north as a national park, where the buffalo may roam in undisturbed safety so far as man is concerned. It is to be earnestly hoped that the necessary steps will be taken to keep it in check. However, it should be possible to do so, and if a fair measure of success in protection is achieved, the herd should steadily increase.

It is a notable feature of the discovery of this herd that the physique of the animals appears to have improved the result of the years spent in the North. Bulls are reported of a size considerably larger than any in museums. This may be due to the abundance of food available for the small herd in a vast area, or it may be due to the fact that the rigorous climate of the far north weeds out the inferior animals and leaves only the fittest and hardiest types.

In any event the discovery is of considerable importance apart from its zoological interest. Under careful protection the herd may increase as that in captivity at Watnright has done, and once the stock is firmly established, and the rate of increase reliably ascertained, it may be possible to arrange for the killing of strictly limited numbers annually, and the sale of the meat on the market. The growth and prosperity of this reindeer meat industry in Alaska may be taken as an indication of the real value of such a trade. It would have to be most carefully regulated and controlled, and probably it should remain entirely a Dominion Government monopoly, which might in time become a quite valuable public asset.

At present the timber wolves seem to be the chief enemy the buffalo have to fear, but the loss from this source is probably not very serious, and is likely to be a diminishing one as government protection of the buffalo becomes organized.

In the meantime this "return of the native" may be generally welcomed, and we may congratulate ourselves that it is in Canada that he has found a refuge even more in accordance with his natural instincts than the park at Watnright, which has kept in somewhat unromantic safety his fellow survivors from the spacious past.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We see in the daily papers a report of a man and woman in the east, both married, but not to each other, committing suicide together. In two of the papers at least the heading was "A Romantic Suicide." What, if any, romance can be seen in two middle-aged persons ruining two homes, the happiness of their families and their own chances at the resurrection. Heaven only knows. The item of news might better have remained unpublished, or at least published under a heading bearing some resemblance to the crime committed.

Although some of our contemporaries who are inclined to yell blue rain will no doubt say we are darning damage and magnifying benefits so as to mislead the outside world, we say with confidence that despite the recent hail storms, prospects for a crop in the province are better than they were two weeks ago. Even in the Red Deer district, where the hail storm was at its worst, we believe that looking at the whole district, instead of at isolated persons in it, our statement will stand. In the making of the statement we have the backing of some at least of the most prominent farmers in the district.

In discussing the crop situation with various farmers two statements have been made several times. One was that summerfall was at least fifty percent ahead of other lands after the bad spell of drought. The other was that the farmer who was extensively in the dairying business would not suffer from the hail storm to anything like the same extent as the farmer who was not. We had thought that both these facts were by this time common knowledge. But we are told that only a small percentage of farmers summerfall as extensively as they should, and that the number of farmers who put their dairy industry ahead of their grain growing could be counted on the fingers of both hands. We do not wish to appear to be giving advice to farmers about their business that they must know better than we can hope to. But we pass on the information given us by farmers who have made, and are making, a success financially of farming.

Of surpassing interest to all of our readers in the Province must be the news that the farmers have taken the first steps to set into operation pools for the marketing of livestock and dairy products. On Thursday a meeting was held at Lacombe at which a provisional board to look after the livestock end was formed. On Friday at a similar meeting in Red Deer, a provisional board was formed to look after the dairy products. If the pools can improve the prices paid to the producer, and it seems that they can, then especially with regard to livestock the movement is most timely and welcome.

Corsets

Nemo Corsets have many hygienic advantages in the scientific construction and design that appeal to women anxious to correct the results of a corsetless period.

The demand for lower bust models has been successfully met without sacrificing any of the beneficial supporting influences of these corsets, which will properly fit and benefit any type of figure.

Excessive flesh is a detriment to health. Nemo Self-reducing Corsets enable women of full to stout figure to preserve good health and good proportions by preventing an accumulation of excess flesh or banishing it if it already has made its appearance.

525—Our model suits an average to full figure; reduces and flattens both the diaphragm and abdomen.

The Wonderlift Bandlet lifts up and holds in healthful position the weakened and fallen abdominal muscles and organs. It likewise prevents the development of such a condition when worn in time. It is completely adjustable to the exact individual lines of the wearer. Its supporting and reducing power makes the figure actually smaller at once, and permanently. The Bandlet and its inside lacing are concealed by the corset skirt.

The Circlets

Adjust quickly, launder easily, and equalize the bust and shoulder flesh. No hooks or eyes—simply slip over the head and fastens at the waist—both back and front. Models, sizes 32-50, $1.50 to $3.00. "It beautifies as it encircles."

KOTEX

Inexpensive, hygienic, comfortable and safe. $1.00 package

Ready-to-Wear

FLANNEL SPORT DRESSES

For sports wear, one of the smartest costumes is a flannel dress. It is also very serviceable for dull days and cool evenings.

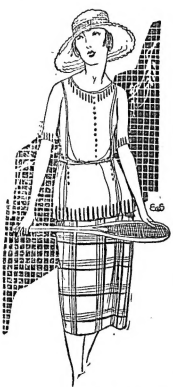

Two-piece dresses are very popular this season. The skirt is pleated and attached to a bodice. The overblouse is made of a contrasting color in loose fitting style.

The one-piece dresses are made perfectly straight with long waisted effect; generally a small round collar and long ties add the finishing touch.

Colors Sand, Flame and Green are in the greatest demand.

Choose yours now, and if not for sports wear, have it ready for cool days.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To Our Customers:—

It is with reluctance that we have to announce that after August 1st we shall be unable to continue the granting of credit, and shall have to place our business on a cash basis.

We always looked upon the granting of credit as one of the services we could render our friends, and the withdrawal of this service causes us some disappointment.

This change in policy has not been arrived at hastily. For weeks we have been thinking it over, but the time involved in running a credit business, in book-keeping and collecting, has left us no alternative than to sell for cash only.

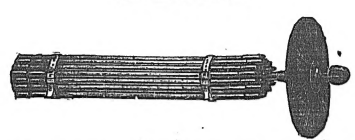

We commend this change to your kind consideration and sincerely hope to be favored with your continued patronage under the new conditions, and shall use our utmost thought and energy to compensate our customers for the withdrawal of the credit system to which so many have been accustomed.

Yours sincerely,

JARVIS-GOODEY HARNESS CO.

Watch Repairing

If your watch is a good one—or valuable one—or valuable for some sentimental association—you should be sure that the man who repairs it is a skilled workman.

A watch that's worth repairing at all is worth repairing well. We wouldn't do it otherwise—even if you were "not particular."

And it can be repaired here if it is repairable at all.
